Press Release Summary: Momentum Christian Church's Lead Minister, Dan Smith, will be preaching a relevant sermon series on sex in today's culture October 19th and 26th, 2008.

Press Release Body: Valley View, Ohio -- Lead Minister, Dan Smith, at Momentum Christian Church, will be speaking for two weeks on sex, and practical insights from the Bible on this subject, which churches often find taboo. The sermon series, titled "Bringin' Sexy Back" will run October 19th and 26th.

"It's no secret that America is saturated with sexuality, but most churches are pretty silent about the issue," says Smith. "However, the Bible has a lot of really practical insights for people who live in a culture like ours."

This sermon series won't feature some lame, naive preacher yelling at people about their past mistakes because — to some degree — everyone has messed up in this area. It will be a lot of relevant, heart-to-heart teaching that will help us better understand why God created such a powerful magic.

The church and its staff have rated the sermons PG-12, but they encourage parents to bring middle school and high school students.

Momentum Christian Church meets at the Cinemark Theatre in Valley View at 10am on Sunday mornings. The service is approximately 1 hour 15 minutes. Momentum designates itself as "a church for people who hate going to church." They use rock music, funny videos, and relevant sermons to attract people who have previously thought church was boring and irrelevant.

Smith is a self-proclaimed "storyteller-preacher, comedy-writer, and lead minister of Momentum." His comedy has been featured on CNN, VH-1, The New York Times, Glenn Beck, and Yahoo! In 2007, he was recognized by Cleveland Magazine as one of Cleveland's "Most Interesting People." Some say he's mildly funny. His Mom thinks he's very funny. At the very least, he cracks himself up.
