Academia has become extremely competitive and students are under ever-increasing pressure to perform well. If not, many stand to lose their scholarships and others, their chance of lucrative employment upon graduation. At the same time, the typical student's environment is hardly conducive to the attainment of high grades. Many have to work to support themselves and others are simply out of their element, largely due to the fact to the impersonal nature of university lecture halls, compounded by the absence of personal attention. For the most part, the average student is left to his/her own devices. University lecturers and professors neither have the time nor inclination to give students individual attention. This is precisely where Oxbridge Researchers Ltd steps in.

While established just one year ago, Oxbridge Researchers brings years of academic experience to the table. Not only does each and every one of OR's owners hold a graduate degree but, the Executive Director and Quality Control Division Director respectively bring 15 and 20 years of academic and research writing industry experience to the company. The same can be said for each of the company's Operations Managers. As a direct outcome of the mentioned industry experience, OR's founders created a company which addresses serious gaps in the custom-research industry. OR's range of academic services is designed to address the gaps in the industry, the shortcomings of the current academic environment and the unquestionable importance of grades. These services are offered through The Essayist, HD Essays, Aussie Essayist, Dissertationist, UK Essayist, US Essayist and PhD Essayist.

One of the most popular of the academic services offered by Oxbridge Researchers Ltd is model essay, research, dissertation, thesis and coursework writing. Our Right Write team of professional writers possess both the academic and linguistic qualifications needed for academic research writing. Whether you need a short paper on one of Shakespeare's plays or a complex PhD-level dissertation on the Causes and Consequences of the current economic recession, complete with the proposal of innovative strategies designed to overcome the crisis, our Right Write team can handle it to perfection. If you want a High Distinction or A+ grade, you can be sure that you will receive nothing less. Each paper, written in accordance with the student's requirements, is fully guaranteed as original and the delivery of the completed work is always accompanied with a comprehensive plagiarism report, generated by the engine most popularly used by universities. No need to worry, though, as originality reports will be generated with the strict requirement that the paper in question is not to be stored on a database.

Our model research writing service does not end with the completion of the paper and the submission of the plagiarism report. Oxbridge Researchers provides clients with after care service in the form of the delivery of the research articles cited (upon customer request), unlimited free revisions for a period of eight weeks following delivery and a comprehensive explanation of the research work delivered. In other words, your Right Write writer will explain the entire research to you, however many times you need. You know what the best part is? OR is one of the very rare custom-research companies which gives its clients the copyright to the work they ordered (ensuring that the company will never resell it to another or upload it to an essaybank) and the only one which gives clients a signed Non-Disclosure Agreement, thereby legally ensuring complete confidentiality.

If excellence in custom-research writing is not enough for you, our academic services extend beyond that. Not only do we provide clients with research editing and proofreading services but OR also offers them a MarkIt! service. If you, the student, sends us your paper, one of our academicians will read through and grade it, providing the client with a comprehensive explanation of the rationale behind the grade received and how the paper can be improved. When you throw in tutoring in almost any subject into the bargain, Oxbridge Researchers emerges as the company with the MOST.

Students who avail themselves of our academic services can expect a significant improvement in their grades as a result. With our Right Write team and a Board of Directors and management team with extensive industry and academic experience, Oxbridge Researchers can rightly boast that it is the company with the MOST.
