Lake Tahoe, Calif., December, 2009 -- Addiction recovery works better when it is drug-free. Time, exercise, therapy and a healthy diet are all also required to heal. These offerings, plus comfort, relaxation and a welcoming environment, can be found through a drug rehab California program. The decision to have a loved one attend a drug rehabilitation center may seem difficult, but living life with an addict isn't any easier. There are many options to choose from when it comes to methods of rehabilitation: out-patient, in-patient, 12-step, drug-free, and even rehabilitation that uses one drug to wean the addict off another drug. The drug-free Narconon program has a proven success rate of long-term recovery.

When it comes to a drug addiction program, S. Lake Tahoe California centers Vista Bay, Sierra Recovery Center, Tahoe Turning Point, Inc., and Tahoe Youth and Family Services all employ the Narconon way. It helps clients recover from drug and alcohol addictions without the use of additional drugs, in a healthy, holistic manner that integrates exercise, nutrition, therapy, and other natural ways to detox the body of the harmful toxins that promote continued use of drugs and alcohol. The Narconon program is not a 12-step program that holds meetings on the weekend. The person battling their addiction is treated on an inpatient basis and is allowed to take as long as necessary to attain recovery. When the patient graduates from the program, they graduate as sober members of society.

For the last three decades, Narconon has helped drug and alcohol users move beyond their addictions in a healthy way, empowering them with tools to beat their addiction and live as sober individuals
