SOS > Search Office Space has relocated to a new world class location, Berkeley Square House in London's Mayfair.

SOS is experiencing a continued increase in global business relationships within the serviced office industry. The company's growth and increasingly influential role in the market has taken the company's reach and operations to a global level. The new high profile location in Central London will enable SOS to easily manage its global relationships with business centres, corporate clients, commercial property agents, property companies and development companies, in London and also throughout the world.

The previous UK headquarters were located in the area where the Bond Street Crossrail underground station is due to be built, however following the compulsory purchase of the site, SOS > Search Office Space decided to move to its new even more prestigious location.

Richard Smith, Managing Director and founder of Search Office Space commented: "We are sad to be leaving 18 Hanover Square (due to Crossrail) because it was an excellent building with superb customer service. However we are delighted to be moving to Berkeley Square House, which is undoubtedly the most prestigious address in London."

Berkeley Square House is one of the most prestigious addresses in London. Overlooking the east side of Berkeley Square, the building is one of the most highly sought-after addresses in Mayfair and London.

In addition to being the home to high profile national and international businesses, the property is surrounded by world class restaurants, hotels, entertainment, shopping, and business centres.

About SOS > Search Office Space:
Search Office Space was founded in 1993 by Richard Smith in order to bring together all elements of the serviced office space market into one convenient single point of contact, with clients having access, at no cost, to the entire global serviced office market.

With major offices in London, Auckland, Hong Kong, along with US headquarters in Manhattan and offices in California, SOS > Search Office Space is ideally placed to provide services across key UK locations, with office space in London, office space in Mayfair and office space in Kensington available, and across the world.

This global marketplace now includes all the serviced office centre operators in the industry - creating an online marketplace that currently represents more than 100 million square feet of serviced office space in more than seventy five countries.
