British Airways online community site, Metrotwin.com is supporting the Nat Finkelstein photographic exhibition at the Idea Generation Gallery in East London, which runs until February 14th and offers free admission.

The exhibition which is entitled 'From One Extreme to the Other' is a celebration of the life and work of Finkelstein, a photojournalist who is most remembered for his iconic and intimate documentation of Andy Warhol's infamous studio - the Factory.

Nuria Garrido, British Airways innovations and digital executive said: "This is an inspiring exhibition to support and very fitting since Finkelstein is a celebrated New Yorker hosting his work in London - and Metrotwin.com celebrates all that is great and good about both capitals."

Metrotwin.com is a travel website that selects the best things to see and do in two of the most dynamic hubs – London and New York, with recommendations from expert bloggers and local communities. British Airways offers an extensive collection of high quality hotels in New York and London to suit all customers.

Nat Finkelstein was widely regarded as one of the most important photojournalists of modern times. His work now hangs in the permanent collections of leading museums and galleries around the world.

The British Airways/Metrotwin sponsored exhibition - Nat Finkelstein: From One Extreme to the Other will be showing at the Idea Generation Gallery, 11 Chance Street, London, E2 7JB, until the 14th Feb.

The Idea Generation Gallery is open Monday to Friday (10am - 6pm) and at the weekend (12 noon until 5pm) and admission is free.
